APPENDIX 1

Achievements and performance

Summary of the main achievements of the charity during the financial period

After our main players and organisers left the core numbers were very low and the charity was possibly going to have to cease existence. However, we managed to persuade someone to run the musical side of things and we advertised for new members and we managed to keep the band practices viable. We played at the Kelso Folk festival in September (our only gig) and we continue to practice with the hope that numbers will increase again. We are currently running on the moneys in the bank account which can sustain us for a few more years at current spending rates.

Financial review

Brief statement of the charity's policy on reserves

Funds are used as needed by agreement of a majority of trustees present at the meeting where discussions are held.

Details of any deficit

We had a deficit in 2025 but we still have enough funds to cover costs for several years in the event that the 'reboot' doesn't get enough interest to generate a viable ceilidh band again.

Donated facilities and services (if any)
